

COUNTY'S ROADS DEPLORABLE SUPERVISORS LEARN

Lack of Funds Prevents Proper Maintenance, Supt. Leake Says

Lee county roads are slowly but surely going back to the mud due to the lack of funds whereby the county road system can be maintained and improved, County Superintendent of Highways Fred W. Leake told members of the board of supervisors yesterday afternoon. It is impossible to take care of the roads built under the present system and to extend the resurfacing program, the supervisors were told.

The statement came when the road and bridge committee presented a resolution and recommendation to the board which provided that the maintenance of all state aid roads in the county which have been improved by paving be discontinued to bring the state aid mileage up to the 25 per cent.

In 1926, 1927 and 1928 the road and bridge committee had approximately $100,000 annually with which to carry on the program of improvement of county roads. Superintendent Leake told the board. During the past few years this has decreased to about one-fifth the amount but the public expects the same service as before. Members of the board complained that the county gravel roads were rapidly wearing out and some of the supervisors stated that the township roads were in better condition than the county system.

Resolution Drafted Supervisor J. W. Griesse of Ashton called for a roll call vote on the resolution and recommendation which lost by a vote of 16 to 7. The supervisors who voted for its adoption were: John Fassig, Leon Miller, Seth Anderson, Albert Willis, Charles Kuebel, L. L. Gehant and H. O. Rissler.

The judiciary committee presented two resolutions at the afternoon meeting both of which pertained to the operation of road houses within the county. A minority report signed by two members of the committee favored extending the closing hours of road houses until 1 o'clock in the morning each day of the week except Sunday. In this resolution it was charged that the present regulatory hours were unfair and prevented the proprietors from making a living. The other provisions prohibiting dancing and the regulation of liquor sales and license fees were unchanged and the two signers Louis L. Gehant and Charles G. Kuebel favored the regulation taking effect March 15.

Regulations Unchanged A majority report which duplicated that action of the board at their December meeting, signed by Henry L. Gehant, Albert Willis and William Avery of the judiciary committee, was called up for vote by Supervisor Charles Ramsdell of Franklin Grove. The China township representative moved the adoption of the majority resolution. Supervisor Leon Hart of Palmyra told the board that County Treasurer Walter Ortlesen had requested him to secure the opinion of the board in sending the assessors and members of the county board of review to a district meeting as has been the practice of the past two years, the expense to be defrayed by the county.

"Is this to become an established custom?" asked Supervisor Avery. The Palmyra supervisor then presented a motion to the board which favored the county standing the expense of sending the assessors to a district meeting which met with the unanimous approval of the body.

The education committee presented a report which was adopted by the board, naming the official depositories to be used in the depositing of funds in the office of County Superintendent of Schools L. W. Miller, as follows: Dixon National bank, City National bank in Dixon; H. F. Gehant Banking Co., West Brooklyn; Ashton bank; State Bank of Paw Paw; Franklin Grove bank; the First National bank of Amboy and the Farmers state bank of Sublette.

Supervisor L. D. Hemenway, chairman of the finance committee explained to the board that his committee had not completed its report to be submitted at the regular March meeting and suggested that the board adjourn until next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, which action was adopted.

HOMECRAFT SOC. HAS GREAT SHOW OF CLEVER WORK

Members of the Dixon Homecraft club were today completing arrangement of their annual show of handicraft in the Evening Telegraph building on East First street, which will be open for public inspection through Sunday. Students in the high school manual training department and the Boy Scouts are also showing work at the display.

The exhibit opened this afternoon at 11 o'clock and today and tomorrow will continue through from that hour until 10 o'clock at night. Sunday afternoon the exhibits may be viewed by the public from 11 to 6 o'clock.

Wood working machinery built by members of the Homecraft club and articles which they have constructed are being displayed by the members. Another section of the display consists of machinery used by Homecrafters in their work, all of which are very interesting and are worthy of the inspection by the public.

During the early winter months the Dixon Homecrafters joined forces and built several hundred toys which were delivered to the Goodfellows organization for distribution to children, who otherwise would have received no Christmas gifts.

QUINTUPLETS TO BE MADE KING'S SPECIAL WARDS

Ontario Legislature is Considering Bill to Name Guardians

Toronto, March 15 — (AP) — Five famous little girls, indifferent to the serious deliberations their existence has evoked, were well on their way today to becoming "special wards of His Majesty the King."

A measure to place the babes, the celebrated Dionne quintuplets, under the guardianship of David A. Croil, Ontario minister of welfare, was up for its third reading today in the provincial legislature.

For two hours yesterday the legislators debated the bill—"The Dionne Quintuplet Guardianship Act of 1935." The Liberal government of Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn jammed it through committee without amendment despite opposition from the Conservative minority.

"I never saw such drastic legislation," said Col. W. H. Prince, Toronto Conservative. "Why, after a while you won't be able to do anything in this country the way the government is taking power."

Premier Adamant Premier Mitchell retorted that the measure "is going through in its present form without dotting an I or crossing a T."

While the legislative battle raged, grey-haired Dr. Allan Roy DaPoe, the infants' physician, sat on the sidelines, an interested but silent spectator.

Olivia Dionne, father of the quintuplets, and Leo Kerwin, his manager, also visited the Capital. It was reported he sought to have the government reconsider its intention of committing the babies to such strict guardianship.

Earlier in the week Dionne said his family would be split in two if the guardianship bill passed.

The welfare minister said once he is made guardian he will appoint as "active" guardians Dr. DaPoe and "Papa" Dionne. More may be named later, he said.

Ten Per Cent Dividend for Sublette People

Edward J. Barrett, State Auditor, announced today that he has authorized the payment of 10 per cent of the waived deposits at the Farmers bank of Sublette. The distribution will amount to approximately $3,577.00.

The bank was opened April 28, 1933, following the banking moratorium and in order to facilitate the opening of the bank 40 per cent of the deposits were waived. This is the first repayment. The distribution will be made this month, the Auditor stated.

Dozen Inscribed Potsherds Found at Tel Adduweir Date Back 2,500 Years; Prove Accuracy of Bible

Jerusalem, March 15 — (Palestine Agency) — Prof. Harry Torczyner, expert on Semitic languages of the Hebrew University of Jerusalem, said today that 12 inscribed potsherds found several days ago at Tel Adduweir, ancient Lachish, by J. L. Starkey, head of the Wellcome archaeological research expedition, date back definitely to the time of Jeremiah 2,500 years ago.

Prof. Torczyner said a remarkable aspect of the script was that it appears to be written in ordinary ink, such as might be used today, and that the discovery is the most reliable find ever made in the period of the first temple.

ADMINISTRATION RELIEF BILL TO BE JAMMED THRU

Compromise Offer Will Split Ranks of McCarran's Forces

Washington, March 15 — (AP) — Jubilantly, the Roosevelt forces in the senate got set today to jam the $4,888,000,000 work and relief bill straight through a yawning gap in the defenses of the McCarran prevailing wage men.

Tearing back here from Philadelphia, where he again denounced Roosevelt as a man who says "lovely words and lets us go on with our sorrow," Senator Huey P. Long sought to do what he could to stave off defeat.

But the Democrat leaders, believing the struggle, now nearly two months old, was all over but the shouting. Even should Senator Hattie Caraway—"The Little Lady from Arkansas"—be carried from her hospital bed to cast her vote from a stretcher, the McCarran amendment's foes were confident of victory.

Expected Desertions Five or six senators, including New York's advocate of new labor legislation, Robert F. Wagner, were expected to leave the camp of Senator Pat McCarran, the former jurist from Nevada's wide spaces who has been a leader of one of the hottest fights in years.

The magnet that drew them was an administration compromise put forward late yesterday by Senator Richard B. Russell, Jr., tall, lean man who once sat in the governor's chair in Georgia. It lays down the mandate that wages prevailing in private industry must be paid on permanent federal buildings. On all other work (which comprises the huge bulk of the giant program as now outlined) the president may pay his "security wages" estimated at $50 a month if they do not tear down the rates in private industry.

Labor Chief Adamant President William Green of the A. F. of L. was adamant to the last in his stand for the McCarran mandate for prevailing wages on all projects. "No compromise on the McCarran amendment or upon the very vital principle embodied therein has been accepted or will be accepted by the labor representatives," he said.

This was the way the leaders planned to administer the coup de grace to the drive that has given them their trouble aplenty: First the McCarran amendment was to be called for a vote. With that beaten, the Russell amendment, was to be balloted upon. Since debate was being strictly limited the leaders thought both moves would certainly be accomplished today.

After that, the leaders hoped, the big bill would speed to passage in a form acceptable to Roosevelt.

HUEY HAS HOPES OF "CAPTURING" 1936 CONVENTION

Philadelphia, March 15 — (AP) — Hopes of "capturing" the Democratic convention in the summer of 1936 were revealed by U. S. Senator Huey P. Long, as the Louisiana carried his "share-the-wealth" gospel into Pennsylvania.

But as for the presidency, he told a press conference, he doesn't "want" to be president "unless I have to."

Before a large audience some of whom cheered and some of whom booed, Long unleashed new attacks on President Roosevelt and administration leaders.

Criticizing the methods employed by the administration in fighting the depression, he declared the "bone and blood of the American people have become dearer than the preservation of a political party."

"The time has come for me to go counter to the party in power," he asserted in his speech. He quoted writings and speeches of leaders long dead — President Madison, Daniel Webster, Abraham Lincoln, William Jennings Bryan and Theodore Roosevelt — to corporate what he declared was a threat to the republic in the concentration of wealth "in the hands of the few."

"We had three years of the Hoover depression," he continued, "and now we are in our third year of the Roosevelt depression."

"The only difference between the Hoover and the Roosevelt depressions, is that Hoover let it go at that, while Roosevelt is saying lovely words and letting us go on with our sorrow."

MICHIGAN WINS FAVORED ROLE; FOR TANK TITLE

Champaign, Ill., March 15 — (AP) — Michigan was a not favorite to win its second Big Ten championship in two weeks today as trials got underway in the 23rd annual Western conference championship swimming meet.

Preliminary events were to be followed at 3 P. M. by the finals, with Michigan's swimmers battling to retain the title they have won six times in the last seven years. The University of Illinois pool was the scene of the meet.

Illinois, Iowa and Nebraska were the Wolverines' outstanding challengers on the face of the season's previous meets, in which existing records have been smashed in almost every class.

Chuck Flachmann, Illini captain and high scorer in the 1934 conference meet was an early favorite in the 50, 100, and 200 yard races, which he won last year.

His competition in the short dashes was expected from Bill Rollinger, Northwestern; Renner, Michigan; Baker Bryant, Ohio State; Charles Wilson and Jay Brown, Chicago; Hank Schneiderman, Indiana; Jack Sieg, Iowa; and his own teammate, Henry Hansen.

Michigan holds two swimming titles, the conference and the national collegiate.

Retrial of Gould Case Denied Today

New York, March 15 — (AP) — Supreme Court Justice Edgar J. Lauer ruled today against a retrial of the Gould conspiracy case in which Mrs. Wilma E. Gould charged the bogus Prince Michael Romanoff drugged her in a plot to obtain divorce grounds for her husband.

Mrs. Gould won a jury award of $25,000 from Norman J. Gould, wealthy pump manufacturer of Seneca Falls, N. Y., her brother-in-law; Elwood W. Kemp Jr., an attorney; and Gerald Louis, a private detective.

Judge Lauer denied a defense motion for a new trial. A. L. Becker, counsel for Gould, in moving for a retrial, produced an affidavit from Bruce Reynolds, jury member and playwright, stating that the jury had not discussed the allegation that Romanoff drugged Mrs. Gould. Becker maintained that Judge Lauer should have charged the jury to consider that phase of Mrs. Gould's complaint. He said he would appeal.

Court Room No Place to Slap Your Hubby

Marion, Ill., March 15 — (AP) — Mrs. Edna Young, Herrin, has discovered the court room is not the place to slap her husband.

During a conversation between the couple and Assistant State's Attorney Hal Gallimore, Mrs. Young suddenly slapped her husband's face so hard it brought blood. County Judge E. N. Bowen sent her to jail for contempt of court.

FUGITIVE CAPTURED

Colorado Springs, Colo., Mar. 15 — (AP) — Authorities sought today to identify a man in custody as William C. Dale who escaped from the Joliet, Ill., penitentiary last July. The prisoner's arrest resulted from a description published in a detective magazine.

NRA MUST DESTROY

Washington, Mar. 15 — (AP) — Congress was bluntly warned today by S. Clay Williams, retiring head of the National Recovery Board, that it must be ready to destroy the inefficient minority in business if it determines to protect labor in wages and hours of work.

Leaning back in his chair at the Senate Finance Committee's investigation of NRA, and pointing his finger at the senators around him, Williams said:

"You must enforce the code for the social benefits involved against the 10 per cent that the code may destroy, or if you are determined to avoid destruction of the inefficient units then we've got to abandon the purpose of serving the social side."

MISSISSIPPI IS SURGING TO ITS CREST IN SOUTH

Some Places Still Face Grave Danger; Hundreds are Homeless

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Flood waters of Mississippi tributaries apparently were surging to a crest today as thousands of refugees fled rising water in Missouri, southern Illinois, and Arkansas.

Battered levees, strained by flood waters of the past week, were eyed anxiously in the stricken areas, while army engineers said the flood was near its crest in the upper Mississippi basin, and barring further rains, the great river should start falling next week.

13,000 Homeless The situation was still critical in southeastern Missouri and Arkansas where the Red Cross estimated 13,000 would be counted homeless. Three Negroes were drowned when their rowboat capsized in the swollen Little River near Sikeston, Mo.

Engineers warned that levees could withstand no further buffeting near Kennett, Mo., and an area inhabited by 9,000 persons, was gravely threatened. Poplar Bluff was a sanctuary for 3,000 refugees as the St. Francis and Black rivers swept livestock and property in their murky tide.

A levee crumbled at Moberly, Ark., forcing 650 to evacuate the area, and officials warned the New Port levee would probably go out. Scores of marooned victims were rescued in the northern Arkansas flood district.

At Crested in Illinois The crest appeared to have been reached in southern Illinois, but vast sheets of flood water already covered large areas of the district. Flood waters of the Big Muddy poured across a state highway near Murphysboro, and residents of East Murphysboro evacuated their homes.

The Wabash river at Mt. Carmel, Ill., rose at a decreasing rate, and flood-damage diminished in western Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio river points.

No estimates of flood damage were available, but because high waters came before spring planting, the loss was expected to be less than usual from such widespread inundation.

POST OFF AGAIN ON ATTEMPT TO SET SPEED MARK

Is In Stratosphere on a Transcontinental Flight Today

Los Angeles, March 15 — (AP) — Wiley Post, noted 'round the world' flier, took off from Union air terminal at Burbank today on his second attempt to span the continent in eight or less in a 247 mile flight through the stratosphere to New York City.

In his usual quiet manner, the Oklahoma pilot waved "so long" to a group of sleepy-eyed well-wishers at the field and roared away in his globe girdling plane, the "Winnie Mae."

Post's first cross country stratosphere dash several weeks ago ended abruptly when he set his motor troubled ship down on the Mojave desert less than an hour away from Los Angeles.

Six Miles Per Minute. He expected to travel through the less restricted regions of the upper air at a speed of around 350 miles an hour "or more"—something like six miles per minute.

Post dropped the "Winnie Mae's" retractable landing gear as the ship left the ground, and will land on the plane's belly when he reaches Floyd Bennett field in New York City.

The official time of his takeoff at 9:16 A. M. (CST).

His takeoff was without mishap and the landing gear was dropped midway down the runway. The plane will have less air resistance with the gear off.

At High Altitude. The flier headed due east, pointing the blue nose of his ship abruptly upward to gain as quickly as possible the altitude he expects to keep throughout the trip. He will fly between 32,500 feet and 40,000 feet.

Post declared his flight is not primarily a speed dash. Rather, he said, it was planned to demonstrate the feasibility of passenger air travel at faster speed through the upper regions of the sky.

Col. Roscoe Turner holds the transcontinental speed record at 10 hours 2 minutes, set in September, 1934.

Plane Experienced.

The "Winnie Mae" sturdy plane in which the one-eyed Oklahoman has twice flown around the world in record breaking time, has no previous experience in altitude flights before today's takeoff.

Post, after his disappointing set down on the desert on his first cross country stratosphere attempt, charged that "someone" had placed a foreign substance—steel filings or emery dust—in the engine of his plane. While he never elaborated on this assertion, United States aeronautical officials here were said to have started an investigation.

Post's radio equipment permits him to plot his exact course 900 miles ahead. He has no sending equipment but can tune in on broadcast stations and determine directions in that manner through a combination radio compass and weather report receiver.

Because of the extreme height at which he is flying there was little likelihood the progress of his flight would be known barring mishap or forced landing, until his arrival in New York which should be between 3 and 4 o'clock, Central Standard Time.

George, 24, Morris, Ill., was killed early today when the coal truck in which he was riding plunged from the road and crashed into a telephone pole on the Joliet road near Summit. T. R. Steele, 25, Morris, driver of the truck, told police he fell asleep and lost control of the truck. George apparently died of a broken neck.

Louis M. Howe, Secretary to Pres-Roosevelt Since 1924, is Reported Seriously Ill at the White House

Washington, March 15 — (AP) — Louis M. Howe, secretary to President Roosevelt, is seriously ill at the White House.

Howe, who is 64, was taken sick following his trip with the president on February 23 to Boston.

His condition, it was learned, was regarded as critical earlier this week but the White House reported today that he was improved.

Dr. Ross T. McIntire, White House physician, has diagnosed the illness as a recurrence of an old bronchial trouble complicated by cardiac weakness.

Mrs. Howe is with her husband, at the White House.

LINKS LOTHARIO WEDS ONE TIME TOO OFTEN; CELL

Milwaukee, Mar. 15 — (AP) — Louis Howard Longstaff, Lothario of the links convicted of violating the Mann Act, today was sentenced to three years in Federal prison.

Federal Judge P. A. Geiger granted a five day stay of execution and raised Longstaff's bond from $2,500 to $5,000.

Longstaff, former golf professional at Oshkosh, Wis., was convicted by a jury that reached a decision last night after three hours of deliberation. The verdict was sealed and presented in court today.

In testimony yesterday Longstaff said he believed it had been proposed to marry Elsie Prill, a blood book-keeper, in 1931, after his second wife, whom he married in 1920, had telephoned him that she had divorced him. The government contended there was no divorce.

Miss Prill testified a whirlwind courtship with Longstaff who was a childhood chum resulted in their marriage in Rockford, Ill.

GASSAWAY URGES HUEY "STOP BEING A PIKER"

Washington, March 15 — (AP) — A challenge to "stop being a piker and a tool of international bankers" and instead "get behind a real share-the-wealth program" was flung at Senator Huey Long today by Rep. Gassaway (D. Okla.).

The man from the southwest had a twinkle in his eyes and a smile on his face which hinted that maybe he wasn't completely serious after all. But he envisioned a nationwide chain of "Gassaway Plan Clubs" that would "back reaction" Huey into his rightful hole and expound the Gassaway philosophy.

In the lobby just off the house floor, Gassaway put both elbows on a table, puffed at a cigarette, stuck his chin belligerently over his high wing collar and shoe string necktie, and remarked:

"If Huey is right that the government should just go ahead and print enough money for everybody why stop at a lousy $5,000?"

"I don't have any use for that kind of cattle. Why, Huey would hammer the common folks down to $5,000 a year and let the Wall Street folks have an income of $15,000,000."

"How can I keep a Packard and a troop of servants and go to Europe every year on $5,000?"

Shifting his booted feet so that the high heels slicked on the tiled floor, Gassaway remarked:

"Long's theory is rotten. If he won't accept my plan to give the head of every family a $10,000-a-year income and limit any man to $100,000, then it just shows that he is a tool of Rockefeller, Morgan, Mellon and the rest of them."

Midnight Dead Line For Income Payments

Washington, March 15 — (AP) — Midnight tonight is the deadline for paying first installments of the Federal tax against 1934 incomes.

The internal revenue bureau warned that forgetfulness or wilful delay beyond that hour would be costly. Persons who fail to make the initial quarterly payment on time will have to pay 25 per cent additional tax, it was said, and the penalties for wilful failure to keep the date with Uncle Sam's tax collectors may range as high as $10,000 and one year's imprisonment.

CARLOADINGS OFF

Washington, March 15 — (AP) — The Association of American Railroads announced today loadings of revenue freight for the week ended March 9 were 587,270 cars, a decrease of 17,372 cars from the preceding week and a decrease of 26,850 cars from the corresponding week in 1934; but an increase of 145,909 over the corresponding week in 1933.

LICENSED TO WED.

A marriage license has been issued by County Clerk Sterling D. Schrock to Samuel Edgar Kinard and Mrs. Kathryn Belle Mitchell, both of Winterset, Iowa.

Townships Must Levy Tax for Poor Relief

Chicago — (AP) — Robert J. Dunham, chairman of the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission, warned county boards and relief commissions that proper levies for poor relief should be made in town meetings in April to care for families in which there are no employable members, and to provide for the future when cases now cared for by state and Federal funds will be returned to local agencies.

—No Worry About Brennan. The politicians aren't worrying about Martin A. Brennan, the other congressman-at-large. If reappointment is voted, he could run from the Bloomington district, which passed into Republican hands last fall.

For two months, the legislature has avoided the old topic of redistricting Illinois to give Cook county half of the congressional seats. Horner recommended reappointment to turn the job over to a joint committee. The house hasn't acted on the senate proposal, apparently because of the Igoe situation.

A congressional reappointment bill introduced in the house this week by Frank W. McClure of Abingdon was promptly buried in his old committee. McClure was demoted from his 1933 job as reappointment chairman because of his attacks on the Horner administration.

A McClure plan for redistricting was almost adopted two years ago. Its failure was partly because it did not satisfy the supporters of Speaker Rainey, who was a candidate for re-election at the time of his death.

IGOE'S POSITION HOLDS UP RE-APPORTIONMENT ACT

Cook County's Congressman-at-Large Must Be Assured of Post

Springfield, Ill., March 15—(AP)—Congressman-at-large Michael L. Igoe has taken the place of the late Speaker Henry T. Rainey as the big reason why Illinois Democratic leaders are hesitating to redistrict congressionally.

For years, congressional reapportionment was blocked because the Democrats wanted to keep the veteran Rainey in a "safe" district.

The present problem is that redistricting would eliminate the two positions as congressmen-at-large, and require that a new job be found for Igoe.

The result is that reapportionment, vigorously espoused in the past by the Cook county Democrats, has been hanging fire in the legislature.

Several political rumors involve the Chicago Democrat, who was chief orator for his ticket in the 1934 campaign.

Hint Igoe's Ambitions. Republican sources have suggested that Igoe, if his "at large" seat in congress is abolished, might upset Democratic alignments by going after a bigger job, perhaps the governorship or the senate.

A move is underway to give him the appointment as United States District Attorney at Chicago, which is still in Republican hands. Some Democratic factions are understood to be opposed to that, however.

If the state should be reapportioned, Igoe would have to oppose one of his Democratic colleagues if he ran for congress from his south side Chicago district.

A former national committeeman and a defeated candidate for governor in the 1932 primary, Igoe has always played ball with his Democratic associates.

No Worry About Brennan. The politicians aren't worrying about Martin A. Brennan, the other congressman-at-large. If reappointment is voted, he could run from the Bloomington district, which passed into Republican hands last fall.

DARROW TO BE NRA ATTACKER FIRST OF WEEK

Veteran Jurist Who Aroused Johnson, to be Witness

Washington, March 15—(AP)—Clarence Darrow, old courtroom duelist who conducted perhaps the most noted of all onslaughts on NRA, accepted an invitation today to tell a senate inquiry what to do about the Blue Eagle.

The Chicago lawyer, now 77, informed the senate finance committee that he would appear Monday. Foes who want to scrap NRA forthwith were looking forward to his testimony hopefully. Ten months ago, in a report which brought a furious scrap with Hugh S. Johnson, Darrow told the president that some NRA codes tended to foster monopoly and crush the "little fellow." Johnson replied that Darrow's report was "superficial, intemperate and inaccurate."

Long-standing differences between NRA and the Federal Trade Commission had burst into the open today after the two agencies placed clashing reports about the steel industry's price system on Roosevelt's desk. The president had asked a joint report.

Against Price Fixing. The trade commission report strongly recommended that "price-fixing" be dropped from the steel code and left "open to legal attack on the ground it violates the anti-trust laws."

The commission said that continuation of "price-fixing" in the steel and other codes would mean "a substantial possibility of a new and early depression" which might have "radical implications."

The NRA report, which likewise concerned the "basing point" price system used for years in the industry and incorporated in its code, suggested a milder course.

It proposed increasing the number of points from which steel freight rates are figured so that purchasers would pay freight charges from points closer to them than at present. NRA added that the change should be brought about slowly enough to avoid upsetting the industry. Its report denied that the present price controls in the steel code were necessarily price-fixing.

Reports from 142 cities, he said, indicated a decline from 2,197,380 families and single persons in January to 2,193,073 in February. Though the cost dropped, too, from $75,875,603 to $68,612,732, Hopkins said this was due in part to the fact that February has fewer days.

"HE JUST IS"

By Dr. Joseph Fort Newton

"HIS is Harold," said Sir Norman Angell, introducing his friend to a lady of fashion. "He doesn't do anything. He just is."

Harold Wright, in whose memoir the anecdote is told, was a writer and publicist, a worker with Angell in the cause of peace. But, evidently, what he was counted for more than what he said or did.

It makes one think of the girl who, when asked what impression her new boy-friend made, replied emphatically, "He just ain't it."

Manifestly her boy-friend did not register—like a cipher with the rim rubbed off.

Whether a man is or is not, depends not on what he thinks he is, but on what he really is. In short, his personality, his character. If he has neither, he is a piece of furniture to stumble over.

Whether a man is or is not, depends not on what he thinks he is, but on what he really is. In short, his personality, his character. If he has neither, he is a piece of furniture to stumble over.

"This is what we call character," said Emerson; "a reserved force, which acts directly by presence and without means. The reason why we feel one man and not another, is as simple as gravity."

"Character," he adds "is nature in the highest form; the moral order seen through the medium of an individual nature; a habit of action from a permanent vision of truth. It is higher than intellect."

What we want in men is something more than talent, more even than genius; we want the moral power to make talent trusted. "Cleverness is so commonplace," said Sir James Barrie; "we want character."

In nearly any group of people there is one man who, though he may be as effective a worker as any of his comrades, is chiefly valued for what he is, rather than for what he does. And it is the people who "just are" who are most sadly missed and lovingly remembered when they are gone.

Our psychologists tell us that it is dangerous to have an emotion and not turn it into an act. Perhaps they are right; but there are men whose quiet goodness is like radium, deeply influencing others, even when they are unaware of it, and make no effort to do it.

We honor the efficient and vigorous worker who gets things done; but in hours of need we seek one who helps us because "he just is."

Meeting W. M. S. Of Grace Church

The Woman's Missionary Society of Grace Evangelical church met on Tuesday afternoon at the church.

The meeting opened with a song "Speed the Light."

Mrs. A. D. Shaffer had charge of the devotionals. The leaflet "Aunt Parson's Story" was given by Mrs. Fred Krahler. Song, "While the Days are Going By." Current Events, Africa, was given by Mrs. Archie Klein; Kentucky by Anna Johnson; Wisconsin, by Mrs. Phil Miller.

Topic, "Japanese Women Speak" Chapter 6, "Peace and International Friendship" given by Mrs. Ray Wulbrandt. A business session was held after which all were invited to the basement for a social time. Decorations were in keeping with St. Patrick's Day and tempting refreshments were served. Mrs. Vernon Schroock and Mrs. Mac Senneff were the hostesses for the afternoon.

Wisman-Ogle Nuptials in Chicago

Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Ogle of the marriage of their daughter, Doris, to Burrell Wisman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wisman, of Ashton.

The ceremony was performed Saturday, March 2, at the home of Rev. Fred A. Graham, pastor of the Avondale church in Chicago and a former minister of the Ashton Methodist church. The bride and groom were accompanied by the Misses Mildred and Dorothy Koch, Martha White, and Miss Lois Ogle, sister of the bride.

The groom, who teaches the Eureka school, is a graduate of the Ashton high school and attended the University of Missouri, Columbia, Mo. The bride, who is an employee at the Caron Spinning Co., is a graduate of the Rochelle high school. The young couple have the best wishes of their many friends.

Meeting Mothers Auxiliary Thursday

A program of especial interest was enjoyed by those who attended the Mothers' Auxiliary meeting Thursday afternoon at the Methodist church.

The topic chosen for this meeting was "Character Building," which was discussed from the viewpoints of scout leaders by four of Dixon's foremost scout executives, namely, Mrs. Hardy, Mrs. Warner, Mr. Abbott and Mr. Boltz. Each of these gave a very enlightening talk on the activities and purpose of scouting, emphasizing the valuable influence it may have on the character of our children. We were also impressed with the fact that Dixon boy and girl scouts are most fortunate in having such efficient leaders and wish them much success in their work.

Royal "Love Match" is Announced Today

Stockholm, Sweden, Mar. 15 — (AP)—The "love match" engagement of Princess Ingrid, second daughter of Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf of Sweden, and Crown Prince Frederick of Denmark and Iceland, was officially announced today.

The date for the wedding was not immediately announced.

Prince Frederick arrived from Copenhagen yesterday. Although rumors were widespread that his engagement was imminent, court circles refused to confirm the reports "until the proper moment," even requesting Swedish newspapers not to drop any hint of the romantic tidings.

Outstanding in her charm and beauty in a family noted for many beautiful princesses, the golden haired Ingrid is 24 years old.

She inherits from her grandfather, King Gustaf, a keen love of sports. Brought up with four brothers, she always has been fond of tennis, dancing riding and motoring. She often has been seen astride a white cob riding along Stockholm's Strandvagen "Rotten Row."

Frederick, at 36, is tall and handsome. He is a great nephew of the late Queen Alexandra and a second cousin of the Prince of Wales.

The Crown Prince had been engaged in 1922 to Princess Olga of Greece, a sister of the Duchess of Kent, but the match was broken off after six months.

Something to Serve On St. Patrick's Day

"Wearin' O' The Green" is no more important than serving o' the green at your coming St. Patrick's fete. Keep in mind the goodness of such green delicacies as asparagus au gratin, pistachio ice cream, dates stuffed with green fondant, mint jelly with clover leaf rolls. And here is a red and green salad which is "just too pretty to eat" only it is so delicious that you can't resist eating it.

Cranberry and Lime Jelly Salad

Chill a small can of cranberry jelly, cut off the top and slide it out in cylinder form. Dissolve one package of lime gelatin in two cups of boiling water and turn into a large flat pan (about one-half inch thick) and let chill until set. Cut the cranberry jelly in eight circles and place one on each of eight salad plates. Cut the lime gelatin in circles of the same size and lay one on top of each cranberry circle. Make a rosebud of mayonnaise in the center of each and tuck bits of watercress around the salad, forming a shamrock shape.

Mrs. Mary Deutsch who is spending the winter in Florida, writes to friends in the north, telling of the delightful trip she recently experienced, to beautiful Silver Springs.

Poloans Observed Golden Wedding at Their Home Monday

One hundred and thirteen persons gathered Monday to celebrate the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. J. Fred Scholl who have resided on a farm southwest of Polo for the last 41 years. The celebration was held at the home of Arthur Scholl, a son.

Open house was held at the home in the afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock and the evening was devoted to a family gathering which was attended by most of the eighteen grandchildren of the couple. Several of them were ill with chickenpox and so were unable to attend. The decorations were all in gold color, and there were many bouquets of flowers.

In addition to the large number of cards and letters received by Mr. and Mrs. Scholl, the brothers and sisters of the couple presented them with a fine gold colored linen tablecloth and a table set consisting of a sugar, creamer and nut dish.

The children presented their parents with a fine cabinet radio set. The Scholls greatly enjoyed receiving the many cards and letters from old friends of thirty and more years ago.

Miss Catherine Hartwig became the bride of J. Fred Scholl on March 11, 1885, at the Hartwig home in Eagle Point township, with the Rev. A. McDougall, pastor of the Polo Presbyterian church, officiating. During the first nine years of their married life, Mr. and Mrs. Scholl lived on a farm in Lee county only two miles distant from their present home.

Six of their nine children are living. They are Frank W. Scholl of Dixon, Mrs. Mabel M. Williams of Mount Carroll and John H., Arthur E., and Elmer, and Mrs. Emma Hummel, of Polo.

Mr. Scholl who retired from active farming eighteen years ago, has been secretary of the Buffalo Mutual Fire Insurance company for the past nineteen years. Mr. Scholl is 72 years old and Mrs. Scholl is 74.

The guests of the afternoon were: Mrs. Earl Detweiler, Will Detweiler, Mr. and Mrs. Ell Tillman, Floyd Tillman, Mrs. Ellen Haines, Miss Ethel Haines, Rev. and Mrs. McElanathan, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Colls, all of Sterling; Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Mischakoff Has Singing Tone

Interest is growing with each day in the Mischakoff concert which is to be given by the concertmaster of the Chicago Symphony, on the evening of Tuesday, March 20th, in Masonic Temple. Prof. Westgore, himself a talented violinist is instrumental in bringing this renowned musician to Dixon. Following are several comments from the press:

"Vigor in the broad phrases, warmth and tenderness of tone and delightfully vigorous accent to the rhythms. Reserved in attitude, with fine poise in the manner of expression, yet with feeling deep and true. A virtuoso technique used by a sincere artist to express the meaning of the music."—Chicago Evening Post.

"Has brilliance in passage work and above all a singing tone which visibly left the audience entranced."—Milwaukee Journal.

W.R.C. Bridge Party Was Happy Success

The bridge party sponsored by the Woman's Relief Corps and held Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Barbara Fry was a success in every way. There were guests for fourteen tables. A neat sum of money was realized. The proceeds will be used in local patriotic work.

The first ladies' prize was awarded to Dr. Marion White; the second to Mrs. Harry Quick; consolation to Mrs. Mark Smith. First gentlemen's prize to Harold Boyer; second to LeRoy Flannigan; consolation to Albert Ruggles.

Dainty refreshments completed the happy evening for everyone present. Much credit is given to the chairman, Mrs. Gonnerman, and her committee; and thanks are extended to Mrs. Fry for her hospitality in opening her home for this worthy cause.

Meeting of Labboe Club on Wednesday

Wednesday afternoon the Labboe Club met at the home of Mrs. C. A. Lausten. During the business session, plans were made for individual covers for each department of our "Kaleidoscope," and other business matters dispensed with, in courtesy to an absent official.

The Club's project, "Mending," occupied the remainder of the time, and the pleasant meeting closed with dainty refreshments served by the hostess.

The first social gathering will be held Saturday night March 30th at the home of Mrs. Lyle Shperr.

The April official meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Don Hollingsworth.

Meeting of Dixon Afternoon Unit

The Dixon Afternoon Unit of the Home Bureau held its March meeting at the home of Mrs. Charles Hart, the chairman, Mrs. Carl Tippet, presiding. A large number answered roll call and new members were enrolled. Several guests and children were present, also. The lesson on Healthy Adolescence was ably conducted by Mrs. Clark Young of the South Dixon unit, who substituted for the unit's leader, who was in attendance at training school. GRANITE CITY, ELGIN, DOWNED IN STATE RACE

Other Favorites Continue Title Quest Today

Chicago, March 15.—(AP)—Two big favorites, Elgin and Granite City, gazed wistfully from the sidelines today as Illinois high school sectional basketball went into the semi-final round.

Elgin, the choice to carry away the honors from the Winnetka tournament, was eliminated, 27 to 25, by Deerfield-Shields, after the most bitterly contested battle of the tournament. Deerfield won after two overtime sessions of thriller-packed basketball. The winning field goal was questioned when the timer's gun failed to operate, but the ensuing argument ended in Deerfield's favor.

Granite City, figured to easily go through the Gillespie tournament, bowed to Belleville, a district tournament runner up, 27 to 26, in another rousing struggle. Christopher, co-favorite with Johnston City at Salem, also was unexpectedly bounced out of action, losing to Salem, 30 to 25. Johnston City overcame surprisingly tough opposition from Noble to win, 25 to 21.

Two district titleholders, Roseville and Lacon, found the road too long and were eliminated. Knoxville, a district runner-up defeated Roseville, 27 to 21, while Lacon lost to another second-place five, DePue, 29 to 18.

Quincy Still In Running
Quincy, the 1934 champion, ran up the top score of the night in winning its opener 50 to 32 over Jacksonville at Pittsfield. Eldorado, one of southern Illinois big hopes, trounced Crossville, 49 to 21, and Thornton of Harvey, toppled Melvin, 40 to 30, and used reserves most of the game. At Kankakee, West Aurora, favorite at Joliet, advanced by a 33 to 19 triumph over Blue Island.

In addition to the Elgin-Deerfield tussle, three other battles required extra minutes before settlement could be reached. Marshall defeated Villa Grove, 27 to 26 at Casey; Bement trimmed Decatur on the latter's field, 33 to 30, while Beardstown overcame Kinderhook, 19 to 17, at Pittsfield, all in games going extra period.

BAER MUST GIVE UP MOVIES 'TIL HE WINS FIGHT

Hollywood, Calif., March 15.—(AP)—Hollywood will have to get along without Max Baer until the curly-haired champion defends his heavyweight boxing title this summer.

Max himself made this startling disclosure today but attempted to ease any heartaches the film colony may have by confiding that within one week after he retains his title by knocking Schmeling, or Carnera or Lasky, "or some of those other bums," stiff he will start work on a super-scintillating, spectacular opus called "Black River."

"It's a swell story," Max said in a thrilled voice. "It's got Mexican soldiers in it and everything and it is directed by Raoul Walsh."
Max said his manager Anclj Hoffman, will not let him work in pictures between row and his next fight, but that a Hollywood film agent who flew to Sacramento today from the film capital was completing arrangements for his appearance in the new picture.

Rockford City League Basketball Champions Defeat Local Outfits

Two of Dixon's Commercial league teams invaded Rockford last night for the first of a series of post-season tussles with Rockford's champs and were sent home laden with defeat, only after a hard fight.

The Knacks Leaders tangled with the Shanhouse and Sons quint, dropping a 26 to 12 game, and the Beiers Bakery team, local circuit champs were chastised 26 to 17 by the C. & G. Coffee Shoppe club, Rockford local titlists. The games were played in the Rockford coliseum.

Against the Coffee Shoppe team, the Beiers presented a menacing gesture. Leaping into the saddle in the opening quarter, the locals rushed off to a 5-3 first period lead and continued to outdistance their host rivals until just before the half time gun when Cavanaugh, Coffee Shoppe guard sank a long goal to place his team ahead 11 to 10. Thereafter the Rockford team held their advantage but were outplayed 7 to 3 in the final stanza. In the third frame, the Beiers were held to a single free throw completed by Sammy Bellows.

Henry Snared Nine Points.
Henry, scintillating Beiers guard paced his team mates in chalking up nine points. He sank two buckets and completed five out of eight gift tosses. Sam Bellows in the pivot role managed to drop in a trio of baskets and a free shot for seven counters. Rockford's ace was Forsell, forward, who boosted his total to ten points largely through his third period scoring spree, in which he eluded Henry for six points on three field goals.

when Ray swished in a field goal from within the free throw line, but Kays was fouled and given a free throw a moment later when he completed. Ray assisted by big "Stork" Lewis at center, countered with another bucket and Lewis lifted in a goal and two free throws in the first period to give the hosts an 8 to 3 advantage as the quarter closed.

In the second frame the Dixonites tightened their man-to-man defenses and by completing three out of five charity tosses aside from a much needed basket by Joe Miller, the Knacks crept up on their rivals trailing only 11-8 at half time. Shires Miller was responsible for the Knacks ability to keep in the running. He garnered the three gift shots. In the third period Dick Kehrt was fouled and sank his free chance, and the Knacks overhauled their rivals immediately after Kehrt's shot, when Barrowman arched in a beautiful long one from almost the center of the floor to tie the score 11-11. Barrowman's shot swished through the net without touching the rim.

Rally Fizzles Out.
The Knacks last threat was ended at this point. They proved unable to continue their rally to grasp the lead, and the basket eyes of Lewis, Blum and Achelli, Rockford offensive cogs, soon accounted for the piling up of another big advantage by the Shanhouse outfit. In the last quarter the Knacks counted only one free throw provided by Joe Miller. The high scoring individual of the game was Lewis, Shanhouse pivot. Fort Myers, Fla., Mar. 15.—(AP)—Upon the broad, capable shoulders of James Emory Foxx rests the chance to make the Philadelphia Athletics a first-division contender in this year's American League pennant race.

With Foxx shifted behind the bat, after seven years as one of the game's outstanding first basemen and sluggers, Connie Mack believes he has filled the big gap created by the departure of Mickey Cochrane and fortified an otherwise powerful, much improved ball club.

It is a drastic move. Most precedent is against its success and skeptical managers of rival teams believe a month or two will convince Mack that Foxx is still a great 1st baseman. Moreover there is the added risk of injury to a player who is the powerhouse of the A's attack. So far, however, the evidence all points to a happy conclusion for all concerned.

Fort Myers, Fla., Mar. 15.—(AP)—Upon the broad, capable shoulders of James Emory Foxx rests the chance to make the Philadelphia Athletics a first-division contender in this year's American League pennant race.

With Foxx shifted behind the bat, after seven years as one of the game's outstanding first basemen and sluggers, Connie Mack believes he has filled the big gap created by the departure of Mickey Cochrane and fortified an otherwise powerful, much improved ball club.

It is a drastic move. Most precedent is against its success and skeptical managers of rival teams believe a month or two will convince Mack that Foxx is still a great 1st baseman. Moreover there is the added risk of injury to a player who is the powerhouse of the A's attack. So far, however, the evidence all points to a happy conclusion for all concerned.

Rockford City League Basketball Champions Defeat Local Outfits

Beiers Downed By the Coffee Shoppe; Knacks Lose

Two of Dixon's Commercial league teams invaded Rockford last night for the first of a series of post-season tussles with Rockford's champs and were sent home laden with defeat, only after a hard fight.

The Knacks Leaders tangled with the Shanhouse and Sons quint, dropping a 26 to 12 game, and the Beiers Bakery team, local circuit champs were chastised 26 to 17 by the C. & G. Coffee Shoppe club, Rockford local titlists. The games were played in the Rockford coliseum.

Against the Coffee Shoppe team, the Beiers presented a menacing gesture. Leaping into the saddle in the opening quarter, the locals rushed off to a 5-3 first period lead and continued to outdistance their host rivals until just before the half time gun when Cavanaugh, Coffee Shoppe guard sank a long goal to place his team ahead 11 to 10. Thereafter the Rockford team held their advantage but were outplayed 7 to 3 in the final stanza. In the third frame, the Beiers were held to a single free throw completed by Sammy Bellows.

Henry Snared Nine Points.
Henry, scintillating Beiers guard paced his team mates in chalking up nine points. He sank two buckets and completed five out of eight gift tosses. Sam Bellows in the pivot role managed to drop in a trio of baskets and a free shot for seven counters. Rockford's ace was Forsell, forward, who boosted his total to ten points largely through his third period scoring spree, in which he eluded Henry for six points on three field goals.

KNACKS TAMED 26-12.
The Knacks Leaders offered a stubborn resistance before they were subdued by the Rockford W. Shanhouse & Sons quintet 26 to 12. Shanhouse drew first blood when Ray swished in a field goal from within the free throw line, but Kays was fouled and given a free throw a moment later when he completed. Ray assisted by big "Stork" Lewis at center, countered with another bucket and Lewis lifted in a goal and two free throws in the first period to give the hosts an 8 to 3 advantage as the quarter closed.

In the second frame the Dixonites tightened their man-to-man defenses and by completing three out of five charity tosses aside from a much needed basket by Joe Miller, the Knacks crept up on their rivals trailing only 11-8 at half time. Shires Miller was responsible for the Knacks ability to keep in the running. He garnered the three gift shots. In the third period Dick Kehrt was fouled and sank his free chance, and the Knacks overhauled their rivals immediately after Kehrt's shot, when Barrowman arched in a beautiful long one from almost the center of the floor to tie the score 11-11. Barrowman's shot swished through the net without touching the rim.

Rally Fizzles Out.
The Knacks last threat was ended at this point. They proved unable to continue their rally to grasp the lead, and the basket eyes of Lewis, Blum and Achelli, Rockford offensive cogs, soon accounted for the piling up of another big advantage by the Shanhouse outfit. In the last quarter the Knacks counted only one free throw provided by Joe Miller. The high scoring individual of the game was Lewis, Shanhouse pivot. He chalked up eleven points, seven of which were made in the last half when Shires Miller was not in the game.

Next Tuesday in the Dixon high school gymnasium, the Shanhouse & Sons, and the C. & G. Coffee Shoppe quint will play return games with the Knacks and Beiers teams, the first game commencing at 7:15 P. M. and the second at 8:15 P. M., the usual hours for Commercial league teams. A large crowd is expected to witness the second of the post-season series with the Rockford five. STATE'S SCHOOL TROUBLES DUE TO NUMEROUS THINGS

Contributing Factors to Situation Cited by Teachers' Assn.

Springfield, Ill., March 15.—(AP)—A number of factors have contributed to the educational crisis in Illinois, the existence of which is generally conceded in Springfield.

Not a small part of the difficulties have arisen as a result of the hodge-podge organization of the school districts.

Other contributing factors are: The greatly decreased property valuations, which have decreased the amount of revenue which can be raised locally.

Accumulated deficiencies in the school distributive fund, caused by the non-payment of the property tax when the state raised its share of the revenue from that source.

A small state distributive fund compared with the amounts raised by other states for distribution among the school districts. At present Illinois contributes $10,500,000 annually to the schools, in addition to the sums raised locally. This money is distributed under a plan intended to benefit the weaker districts.

"Frills" Are Attacked

Some critics have maintained that a part of the school crisis has been occasioned, at least in some of the districts, by mismanagement on the part of local school boards. In substantiation of this charge they point to what they term "frills" in education and the construction, in more prosperous years, of large buildings, especially gymnasiums.

These criticisms may, in some instances apply in some districts, but surveys and studies made by such organizations as the Illinois State Teachers' Association show the underlying causes for the present crisis as deeper.

Numerous school districts have been forced to default on principal and interest on bonds, or perhaps both.

The school term has been cut in hundreds of districts.

The constitutional debt limit is 5 per cent of the assessed valuation at the time such debt is incurred. Reduction in assessed valuation and inability to meet obligations have caused many districts to have those forms of debts which come under the constitutional limit (bonds, orders to teachers and judgments) exceed the constitutional limit.

Staffs Reduced

In numerous districts the teaching staff has been reduced and the classes have been overcrowded.

In many schools music, art, physical education, bookkeeping and commercial courses, household science, agriculture, vocational and similar work have been eliminated.

For the school year ending in 1934, Illinois had 11,244 elementary teachers under contract at less than $700 a year. In many cases orders are given for payment, and are sharply discounted. In some cases they are worthless. For a long time teachers have had no cash payments in some districts.

Last year the federal government gave $225,000 to enable numerous districts in Illinois to finish out their regular term. In Cook county recent appeals for federal emergency relief have been made by nearly 400 schools which have more than 14,000 pupils; and there are many districts in other parts of the state that are in as bad or worse condition.

Of the 101 high school districts 45 have reached the 50 cent tax rate limit and a few others are handicapped by the four-year average limitation on levies; 47 of the 101 could not pay full tuition for their pupils last year, and 37 owe for years prior to 1934.

Common Schools Hurt

The cost of the common schools in Illinois has been cut from $144,994,741 in 1930 to $100,706,113 in 1934. Illinois has cut school costs nearly one-third whereas the cut for the entire nation is only about one-fifth. Such states as New York, Pennsylvania, Indiana, California, and Massachusetts have not reduced school costs as drastically as Illinois. Even before the depression Illinois spent a much smaller percentage of her income and of her wealth for common schools than was true for the national average.

With their credit exhausted, numerous bills unpaid and local sources of income totally inadequate to maintain the "thorough and efficient" school system promised in the state constitution, hundreds of districts must turn to the state for relief, the Illinois State Teachers' Association and other organizations claim.

VETERANS' IRE POURED OUT ON STEEL CO. HEAD

Eugene Grace's Fight Against Bonus Stirs Veterans' Leaders

Washington, March 15.—(AP)—The wrath of World War Veterans was poured out yesterday upon Eugene G. Grace, president of Bethlehem Steel Corporation, for his criticism of demands for the soldier bonus.

James E. Van Zandt, commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, testifying before the senate munitions committee, termed Grace's position as "monumental" and "unpatriotic."

He joined James A. Drain, Past National Commander of the American Legion, in urging the committee to continue its campaign to take the profits out of war by conscription of capital as well as man, power in time of war.

"It is not my intention," Van Zandt declared, "to inject the soldiers' so-called bonus issue into this discussion."

War Time Bonuses

"That question is now before the other branch of congress and will come to the senate in due time. But I do wish to speak of war time bonuses for a moment."

"I cite the testimony given before this committee by Mr. Eugene G. Grace of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation as a glaring example of unrestricted and exorbitant profits of industry in time of war."

"It was because of the unconscionable profits rolled up by industry and the fat bonuses paid to officials and employees, in addition to salaries and wages that were tripled in many instances, that the question of adjusting the compensation of the man who wore the uniform was first agitated."

Bonus and Salary

"Quite unabashed, Mr. Grace told this committee he received bonuses of approximately $3,000,000 from his corporation during the World War and then defiantly sought to justify that huge handout, in addition to a princely salary."

"That Mr. Grace should have the monumental gall to deplore the payment of the adjusted service certificates to the men who fought the World War is incidental to your purpose of taking the profit out of war."

"I cite his statement merely to illustrate the illogical and selfish position of the war profiteers in their opposition to any measure to end this unjustifiable war profits system."

COAL PURCHASE OF IERC UNDER FIRE OF LYONS

Chicago, March 15.—(AP)—Corporation Counsel William H. Sexton said today he would ask the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission to investigate charges that the commission made purchases in lots under $500 to avoid the necessity of calling for bids.

Sexton made the statement following a report on commission purchases made by Robert J. Dunham, chairman of the commission, to State Rep. Richard J. Lyons, Libertyville Republican, to refute charges of irregularities.

Dunham's report stated that a total of 2,950 tons of coal had

CHAPTER 1A

SHE stood in front of the mirror, giving finishing touches to her face, and thinking of Drimgold's strange confession. She might have known it was something like that. No man who was guilty of the petty, chiseling tactics George Drimgold used could be quite the pillar of society that he liked to simulate.

She snuggled into her fur coat, scooped up the mail, snapped an elastic band around the pack of letters, took care to throw the spring lock on the door into position, nodded to the assistant janitor as she stepped out into the corridor.

She went to the elevator, dropped her letters down the mail chute, pulled her coat tightly around her figure as she met the cold wind of the street. The tingling air felt good to her skin.

She pushed the door and entered the welcome warmth of the tea room.

She hung up the fur coat where she could keep an eye on it, dropped her purse to a chair beside her and consulted the menu.

She could, she saw, get some chicken croquettes and tea and still leave a 10-cent tip for the waitress out of the 50 cents Drimgold had given her.

Millicent decided on the croquettes, and gave her order. She took a cigarette from her purse and was holding a match to it when her eyes suddenly snapped to quick attention. A woman, with a coat of black ermine wrapped around her, had entered the tea room. She walked with quick, nervous steps. Millicent couldn't see the face, but she could glimpse a coldly beautiful eye.

Then the woman in the ermine coat swept past her and took the table just back of the one where Millicent sat.

Millicent ate in slow, thoughtful silence. The woman, dressed as a gypsy, whose duty it was to tell fortunes, came across the room toward her.

"I feel," she said, "that you're going to have a very interesting fortune. Have you finished your tea?"

Millicent smiled wanly. "Really," she said, "I'm not particularly interested, and I haven't any money for a tip if you should give me a good fortune."

The woman sank into a chair beside her, pulled Millicent's tea cup across the table.

She stared steadily down into the few tea leaves in the bottom of the tea cup.

Millicent felt a sensation of vague uneasiness creeping over her. "Look," said the fortune teller. "Look at the way those leaves are arranged. See how black they are, and notice this leaf which has twisted its edges."

"What do they mean?" Millicent inquired.

"Dark deeds of violence," the fortune teller said. "There's murder in the tea cup."

"Murder!" Millicent exclaimed.

"Not yours," the gypsy said softly. "The murder of someone who's close to you. There's danger to you, but you're not going to be murdered. The danger comes from a woman. I can't see her clearly. She's menacing you, and yet she's the woman you'd least suspect."

Millicent hastily pushed the tea cup away.

"I've heard enough," she said irritably. "I'm tired and nervous, and I don't want to hear any more of your predictions."

The gypsy scraped back her chair from the table.

"I'm sorry," she said. "Genuine."

Millicent Graves.

ly sorry. I've only told you because I thought you should be warned."

Millicent flashed her a quick glance and saw that the gypsy's face was white and strained.

"Please forgive me," she said. "Millicent left a tip for the waitress, picked up her check, her gloves and purse, strode to the door."

THE fresh bite of the wind helped to steady her nerves. She was sorry that the walk was not longer. As she turned into the lighted lobby of the office building, she signed her name on the night register, and was swept up to the 17th floor. She walked down the flagged corridor with quick, nervous steps, the sound of her heels clacking in echoes from the sides of the corridor. She paused before Drimgold's office and opened her purse.

Consternation gripped her. Millicent turned the purse over in her hand and stared at it curiously. It was an exact duplicate of her purse—even to the initials, "M. G.," monogrammed on the leather.

With the quick mental processes of one who has worked for a living, and who, therefore, has grown accustomed to responsibilities, Millicent Graves, standing before Drimgold's door, made hasty mental inventory of the situation.

She had made up her face before leaving Drimgold's office. She knew, therefore, that she had taken her own purse when she left the office. The substitution must have taken place at the restaurant. The woman in the black ermine coat, with the high collar, in taking the table immediately behind Millicent, must have left her own purse near Millicent's.

Millicent tucked the purse under her arm, whirled and almost ran toward the elevators.

She pressed her gloved finger against the bell which summoned the elevator. It seemed ages before it swept into view. When it did she saw, to her surprise, that the man at the controls was not the janitor at all, but a well-dressed individual of suave manners, who swung open the doors for her with something of a flourish, and, at the same moment, raised his hat.

"You'll pardon me," he said, "but I found the elevator on the 16th floor. I was in something of a hurry to go down. I rang several times for the janitor. He didn't show up, so I decided to take a hand at the controls myself. I figured the janitor could walk down 16 flights of stairs better than I could. Then I heard you ringing from the 17th floor and couldn't conscientiously abandon you to a long climb down the stairs. Would you care to share in my adventure?"

PERTURBED as she was, Millicent nevertheless recognized the man's inherent strength of character, was moved by his magnetic personality.

"Are you," she asked, "quite certain that you know how to operate it?"

"Oh, quite," he told her. "After all, it isn't too complicated."

As she entered the cage, the man moved a lever, the door clanged shut. He pressed over on the control throttle and the elevator shot downward.

"The trick," he said, smiling. "lies in knowing just when to stop. And then, before fear could grip her, he pushed the control lever back into neutral and the cage slid smoothly to a stop. He moved the lever which opened the door.

"Permit me," he said, and taking her arm, escorted her to the street. "You go this way," he asked, nodding toward the right.

"Yes," she said, hardly knowing whether it was proper for her to continue the acquaintanceship so informally begun.

"Well," he said, to her relief, "I go the other way. You won't tell the janitor about the elevator, will you?"

He raised his hat, and, smiling, turned to sweep down on the wings of the cold night wind.

Millicent almost ran through the swinging door into the tea room. Her eye encountered the gypsy girl.

"My purse," she said breathlessly. "What became of the woman in the black fur coat? The black ermine with the collar around the neck?"

The fortune teller stared at Millicent strangely.

"She crossed to a table back of you," she said, "and only stayed for a minute or two. She wasn't served."

"Do you know who she was?"

"No."

MILlicent GRAVES stared down at the black leather purse she held in her hand.

"If," she said, "she comes to tell her to get in touch with Miss Graves, at Mr. Drimgold's office on the 17th floor of the Wolgamott building."

The fortune teller nodded.

"I'll tell her," she said. Millicent flung away impatiently, fled out of the door.

She was within some 50 feet of the entrance to the Wolgamott building when a figure, garbed in white, came rushing out of the lobby. She recognized the man as the assistant janitor.

As she looked at his white, frightened face, conscious of the cold perspiration on his forehead, of the manner in which the night wind whipped his hair about his forehead, he screamed the single word, "Murder!" Then he turned and ran down the sidewalk as fast as he could go, the wind at his back helping him in his burst of speed.

Millicent Graves, filled with some sudden premonition of impending disaster, in turn raced toward the lobby of the building. She found the elevator open and deserted. She had remembered enough of the manner in which it should be operated to work the lever, which closed the door, and pushed the throttle over to the left.

It took her a moment of fumbling with the controls to get the cage stopped at the 17th floor. Then, having opened the door, she ran down the corridor.

The door of Drimgold's private office was open.

Drimgold lay on the floor. A bullet hole in the center of his forehead welled a thick, red stream across the carpeted floor. A half-opened purse was clutched in the fingers of his left hand. The contents were scattered over the floor.

One swift look at the purse, and she recognized it. It was her own purse. The things which were strewn about the room were her own—lipstick, compact, handkerchief, keys, visiting cards.

She felt panic tighten her throat. Moved by impulse, she ran to the window, flung it open and looked down the 17 floors.

The white-garbed assistant janitor was just rounding the corner, and, slightly behind him, ran a uniformed policeman.

defend their interests. We strongly urge that they do so.

Charges Use of Blind.

"We are thoroughly familiar with the conditions prevailing in the Massachusetts shoe industry and we know precisely what has caused them," Mr. Burton continued. "We object most strenuously to their using these unrelated troubles as a blind to bring about any further restriction on our natural economic advantages."

"It must not be forgotten that when the code was being prepared in the summer of 1933 a determined fight was made by the small town shoe factories to secure a minimum wage differential which would approximate the then existing wage differential and the then existing difference in the cost of living. There was a deadlock that was prolonged for months. The differentials which were finally written into the code were the results of a compromise—a compromise in which the small towns gave up much of the economic advantage that was inherently theirs. This was done on the assumption that the code would expire June 16, 1935, and only when there seemed to be no other hope of reaching an agreement."

"Now that it is proposed to continue the NRA, any further concession such as they demand is unthinkable."

Mr. Burton stated that the present code provisions cannot be held responsible for conditions in Massachusetts. He pointed out that Massachusetts' share of the total national shoe production has undergone a steady decline since 1899. In that year, he said, Massachusetts produced 47.2 per cent of the country's total, but by 1932, a year before the code went into effect, its share of the total output dropped to 23.6 per cent, cut exactly in half.

MID-WESTERNERS URGED TO FIGHT FOR SHOE PLANT

Action Needed to Forestall Unfair Influence of Easterners

A public hearing on the proposed amendments to the boot and shoe manufacturing code has been set for April 16. It is announced by the National Recovery Administration.

Among the revisions to be discussed is the proposal to remove the small town's wage differential. This amendment is one of several being sponsored by various Eastern Massachusetts groups for the announced purpose of rehabilitating the shoe industry in that section.

A. M. Burton, secretary of the St. Louis Shoe Manufacturer's Association, one of the organizations fighting to retain the wage differentials, asserted that the sole result of the code revisions would be to place large sections of the industry at a competitive disadvantage, necessitating drastic changes in their operating policies.

East Wants Change.

"When these proposals were first put forward at the NRA hearing in Washington on January 22," Mr. Burton said, "Massachusetts congressmen and mayors of Massachusetts municipalities were among the advocates. Indeed, Congressman William P. Connery, Jr., of the Seventh Massachusetts district, expressly claimed that he and a certain labor organizer were the originators of the movement to reopen the code."

"This being the case, shoe manufacturing towns of the Middle West are entirely justified in asking their own congressmen and senators to represent them at the hearing on April 16. This hearing has been called for the purpose of getting all material data from the entire industry. Most of the smaller shoe manufacturing towns cannot arrange to have a special representative present. They have every reason, therefore, to call upon their congressmen and senators to attend and

FRISCH RAKES CARDINAL CLUB WITH CRITICISM

Red Sox in For a Big Double header Series

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 15.—(AP)—A flock of double-plays are in the making for the Boston Red Sox in their exhibition game with the St. Louis Browns here today if plans of Manager Rogers Hornsby bear fruit.

The Browns drilled yesterday on execution of double plays and the catchers and infielders were smarted up on one of Hornsby's pet plays the object of which was to trap a runner off third base on a ground ball and subsequently to trap the batter between first and second. Fay Thomas, Paul Andrews and Dick Coffman are scheduled to start on the mound.

CARDS JARRED BY FRISCH
Miami Beach, Fla., March 15.—(AP)—Their mental attitude stimulated by a slightly critical "going over" yesterday by Manager Frank Frisch, the St. Louis Cardinals were ready to take on the New York Giants here this afternoon in an exhibition game.

None too pleased by his club's performance against the Athletics Wednesday, Frisch unbundled himself in the clubhouse at Bradenton yesterday.

"What kind of a bunch is this," he said, "when a man strikes out and goes back to the dugout laughing? I've heard about that from 10 people already. Just because a guy thinks he's champion of the world he doesn't have to take the game seriously anymore. Oh yeah! What size hats do you guys wear anyway? All I got to say is you'd better snap out of it."

HALE NOT SATISFIED

New Orleans—Odell (Bad News) Hale wished for two years that someone would take the second base job with the Cleveland Indians away from him so he could play third.

He is stationed at third this spring and now he isn't sure he wants to play there. He says he feels more at home at second base now.

ROWLAND LIKES REDS

Tampa, Fla.—Take it from Clarence Rowland, chief scout for the Chicago Cubs—the Reds "are not going to wind up in the cellar."

Rowland was a visitor to the Reds camp yesterday.

"I've been at many camps," he said, "but I never have seen such cheerful and ambitious activity."

Manager Bucky Harris planned to try out four rookie pitchers.

CUB HITTERS IDLE

Los Angeles, Calif.—The Chicago Cub pitching appears to be coming along all right, and the fielding merits little criticism, but Manager Charlie Grimm is wondering when the hitters are going to get going.

In two intra-camp games and the opener against Pittsburgh the Cub regulars have accomplished nothing like the form they will have to show to figure in the National league championship title fight.

SOX ROOKIES

Santa Monica, Calif.—Manager Jimmy Dykes started putting his recruits on the spot today as the Chicago White Sox headed into their exhibition schedule against Los Angeles.

Three young pitchers, J. Duncan Rigney, Richard Bock and Monte Stratton, were assigned to duty, with Babe Phelps and Whitlow Wyatt handy in case the Angels embarrass the rookies with base hits.

TIGERS MEET PHILLIES

Lakeland, Fla.—The Detroit Tigers will play host to the Phillies tomorrow in their first exhibition in the "Grapefruit League," and Mickey Cochrane may give some of his talented rookies a chance to perform against outside competition.

Dixie Howell is almost certain to play third.

The regulars trimmed the Yankees 9 to 1 yesterday.

WON'T MEET CUBS

San Bernardino, Calif.—Guy Bush and Big Jim Weaver, the ex-hurlers from the Chicago Cubs, will stay off the mound for the Pirates during the current series with the Cubs, says Manager Pie Traynor.

The Bucs' were on the short end of a closely contested 1-0 contest with the Chicago outfit yesterday.

CLARK LOOKS BETTER

Orlando, Fla.—William Watson Clark, once one of the National League's finest scullpaws, has maintained for several weeks that his arm, lame for a couple of years is sound again. Maybe they'll believe him now.

Lefty pitched four innings for the Brooklyn Dodgers varsity yesterday, gave the Yannis four hits, two of them scratches, struck out three and walked none.

UNDERSTUDIES BILL

Miami Beach, Fla.—Manager Bill Terry of the New York Giants has been looking for two years for an acceptable understudy at first base. Perhaps Joe Malay is the answer.

Joe played the whole game against the Red Sox yesterday and kicked in with a pair of hits. That is more than Terry has been able to do.

LAME ARMS BETTER

St. Petersburg, Fla.—The New York Yankees still are chuckling today over the performances of Russ Van Atta and Dixie Walker, a couple of 1934 lame arms who received those famous dollar-a-year contracts.

Van Atta took a four-inning stretch yesterday and allowed only one hit. Walker, who couldn't throw at all last year, was tossing strikes from the outfield all day, one ending in a double play.

YANS TIED PHILLIES

Winter Haven, Fla.—Light practice and signal drill is on the menu today for the Phillies who meet the Detroit Tigers tomorrow.

In yesterday's regular-Yannis mixup, the Yans held the first team to a 2-2 tie.

FARMER FACES 220-YEAR TERM AS "CHISELER"

Indiana Man Prosecuted as Presenting False Claim to Gov't.

Hammond, Ind., March 15.—(AP)—Described by court officials as the first farmer hauled into court for "chiseling" on corn-hog and wheat contracts, Louis Wyckoff, who owns a 450-acre farm in Porter county, faces sentence sometime in the next week.

Sentence was postponed by Federal Judge Thomas W. Slick on Thursday when Assistant United States District Attorney Francis Bowser reported Wyckoff's own attorney could not be present.

Wyckoff is president of the Porter County Wheat Control Reduction unit, and acting chief, consequently, of wheat reduction operations. Charged with making false Sox on the home diamond tomorrow.

Mack hopes to defeat Joe Cronin's boys and add another victory to the A's 2-2 score of games played in the grapefruit series.

BRAVES NOT FOOLING

St. Petersburg, Fla.—Manager Bill McKechnie of the Braves says there's no use "foolin' around with these Yankees" tomorrow—"Babe Ruth and Wally Berger will play without a doubt."

"Berger is in fair shape," Bill says, "and the Babe says his legs are strong enough to take four or five innings in the outfield."

reports in his own wheat contract application and also in his corn-hog application, Wyckoff pleaded "nolo contendere," declining to contest the charges.

The prosecution is not under the agricultural adjustment act, which provides no penalties but under federal statutes on presenting false claims to the government. On the two indictments, one for his corn-hog contract and another for the wheat contract, Wyckoff could be given the staggering total of sentence of 220 years in jail, attorneys said, or a fine of $10,000 on each of 22 counts.

Bowser said he understood the case was the first of its kind, although fraud cases based on cotton reduction contracts are pending.

TONY SEEKS TO REGAIN WANING RING PRESTIGE

Chicago, March 15.—(AP)—Tony Canzoneri, who hasn't given up hope of regaining the world lightweight championship, will try to prove tonight in the Chicago Stadium that the licking he took from Chuck Woods of Detroit, three weeks ago, was just one of those things.

Although the New York Italian's stock as a contender for Barney Ross' title dipped sharply when he took an unexpected beating from Woods, he is expected to regain some of the lost prestige tonight.

The former champion is a 7 to 5 favorite to get even with Woods, but is expected to have to hustle. Woods, a youngster, almost unknown until he scored his upset victory, wields a clever left hand, a weapon always bothersome to Canzoneri, and may repeat with it.

NEW TONNAGE RECORD SET IN PRIMO-IMP BOUT

Circus Aspects of Show Prove Big Drawing Card

New York, March 15.—(AP)—The super-dreadnaughts of Plistiana, Primo Carnera and Ray Impellitteri, will come together in Madison Square Garden's reinforced ring tonight for a 10-round bout that sets a new high in total tonnage.

Carnera at 260 pounds, Impellitteri at 258, and Jack Dempsey, slated to referee, at 200, will try the staying powers of the ring to the utmost.

Stretched end to end, Carnera and Impellitteri would reach almost as high as Keith Brown pole vaults. Impellitteri approximately six and a half feet tall, has a fractional edge over Primo in height.

The question of who will win is entirely secondary to the circus aspects of the bout. From a spectator viewpoint, it should be one of the most entertaining shows of this or any other indoor season.

Carnera, former world's champion, has such a wide advantage in experience that he has been made a 3 to 1 favorite. "Da Pream" expects to end matters in a few rounds.

Impellitteri, although he has been around for several years, still is a question mark. Brought along slowly and carefully by Harry Lentini, the Peekskill (N. Y.) big boy has fought only a scattering few bouts, with no particular success. He has been beaten by Tommy Loughran, Walter Neusel and Marty Gallagher.

HAMAS SHOWS BAD EFFECTS; TEUTON BOUT

London, March 15.—(AP)—Steve Hamas, New Jersey heavyweight not only lost his chance to fight Max Baer for the championship when he was stopped by Max Schmeling in Hamburg last Sunday, but he may suffer even more serious consequences according to a Berlin dispatch to the Daily Express by Trevor Wignall, boxing critic.

Hamas is showing serious after effects of the gruelling battle, and it is feared he suffered a spinal injury. His condition has become so serious that he was unable to accept an invitation to visit Chancellor Hitler at Munich, Wignall reported.

"Before he left Hamburg he had practically lost the use of his legs," he Dispatch said. "Even his speech has been slightly affected."

ASSESSORS TO HOLD SEVERAL MORE SESSIONS

Met Yesterday to Hear
Representative of Ill.
Tax Commission

The assessors from the 22 townships in Lee county gathered at the county court room in the court house yesterday afternoon and spent some time listening to talks given by members of the Illinois tax commission and to a general discussion of taxing questions. The final meeting of the assessors, at which time the supplies will be distributed by County Treasurer Walter L. Origiesen, will be held at the court house, March 29. Before that date, however, the assessors will have an opportunity to secure additional information by attending a district conference to be held in this locality within the next ten days. The time and place for this meeting will be announced later.

A poor job of assessing in any county means poor county government while a good job of assessing means good government. H. W. Sweet of the state tax commission told the assessors, and he continued by stating that this office, often important, is one of the most important in the township and the county. Reducing valuations does not mean that taxes will necessarily be reduced he told the assessors. In Lee county, he stated, he had understood that valuations have been reduced materially in the past few years but that taxes had been lowered very little if any, adding that this had been the experience of many other counties of the state.

Many Qualifications
The assessor should be an individual of many qualifications, Mr. Sweet said, including those of a psychologist and a detective. He then referred to the state taxing laws, which he termed antiquated, having been placed on the statute books in 1818, at which time they were considered to be good tax laws.

Real estate, the back-bone of taxation, must continue to bear the burden of taxation until the present laws are changed, he stated. Referring briefly to the much discussed change of the State Constitution, the speaker stated that while much has been said both in favor and against such action, he personally believed that it might not be a bad plan plan to change the constitution, making it applicable to present day life.

Equality in the assessment of property was urged by the tax commission representative. He explained the use of each of the six different schedules which are being

WHAT THE NEWS WAS AROUND DIXON IN YEARS GONE BY

50 YEARS AGO.

Spencer & Harden will soon move their grocery store to the building formerly occupied by L. H. Burd, in the Dimick block. Jay Dodge, driver of Uriah Stroup's team, escaped injury in a runaway accident this morning when he was thrown from the rig. William Buckman of Walton will be a candidate for justice this spring. He has rented his farm and will be able to devote his entire time to the duties of this office.

25 YEARS AGO.

Merton H. Brookner, LeRoy Drew, Frank J. Cahill and Mrs. Edmund Leith have been named census enumerators for Dixon.

Christopher Lebkirchner of West Brooklyn and his bride after their marital trouble before Magistrate W. G. Kent which resulted in "Happy Hooligan" being incarcerated in the county jail for failure to pay a fine of five dollars and costs which was assessed against him.

Mrs. Warren H. Baiger passed away this morning at her home, 923 Peoria avenue, after a long period of invalidism.

furnished to assessors this spring, and warned that the more property left off the books by the assessors meant that the real estate of the county would have to make up the difference. He urged the organization of the assessors of the county for the purpose of discussing valuations and uniformity in scheduling property and suggested meetings to be held at regular intervals during the period of the annual spring assessment.

DAILY HEALTH
STAMMERING AND
The London county council education committee recently issued a memorandum concerning left-handed children. In this memorandum the council advises that some attempt should be made for practical reasons to encourage all children to use the right hand, but it warns that pressure, especially by punishment or ridicule, may produce a harmful degree of emotional disturbance resulting in a variety of nervous symptoms, including stammering.

That enforced righthandedness in a naturally left-handed individual may produce stammering is a well established observation. Why this should be so has puzzled physicians and neurologists. Some have explained this association as a 'mechanical' premise. According to this, the center of the brain, through which speech is mediated is located in the left side of the brain in persons who are righthanded, and in the right side in persons who are left-handed.

In the left handed individual, therefore, the right side of his brain has an early acquired control of the functions of speech and of dominant hand activities; the motor centers in the brain are on the side opposite to the one which they control. If the lefthander is forced to become righthanded, the left side of the brain must take over the control of motor activities and also must "unlearn" some of the activities which it had acquired.

This explanation, which accounts for the difficulties of stammering associated with enforced righthandedness, on straightforward anatomical grounds acquires added weight when it is realized that most cases in which there is a transposition of the internal organs, that is, where the stomach and heart, instead of being on the left side, are on the right side, while the liver, instead of being on the right side is on the left side, also show lefthandedness.

Tomorrow: Malaria in Ceylon.

OBITUARY
FRANK REED
Frank Reed, son of James and Elizabeth Reed, pioneer residents of Ogle county, was born March 6, 1862, near Ashton, Ill. He passed away peacefully at his home in Dixon, Feb. 28, 1935, at the age of 72 years, 11 months and 22 days. He was united in marriage to Lillian B. Messer of Freeport, Ill. Sep. 10, 1895, and to this union one son Sumner was born.

The greater part of his life was spent on the farm four miles north of Franklin Grove. In 1920 the family moved to Dixon where they resided until his death. He leaves to mourn his passing his devoted wife, one son, Sumner Reed of Palmyra, one sister, Mrs. Emma Ward of Horton, Kas., one brother, Washington Reed, of The Delta, Oregon. Five brothers and two sisters preceded him in death: Mary Etta Reiman, Eunice Ann Clark Dudley, Abijah, William, Albert and Gilbert. Three grandchildren, Doris, Marilyn and James Reed also survive, together with a host of friends.

Mr. Reed was a devoted husband and father, and was kind to all who knew him.

Lee Co. Nears
CENTURY MARK
Was 96 Years Old Feb. 27; Formerly Part of Ogle County

Ninety-six years old, but one of the youngest counties in the state, Lee county observed its ninety-sixth anniversary of county-hood in the state of Illinois last month. The county was created by act of the state legislature and was approved February 27, 1839.

Previous to this enactment Lee county had been affiliated with four parent counties—Pike county beginning in 1831; Peoria county in 1825 when Peoria broke away from Fulton; JoDaviess county when that county was organized in 1827 and finally with Ogle county from 1836 until the present organization was established in 1839.

Count in Smithy
The first and only term of court for Ogle county held while joined with Lee was held in a blacksmith shop in Dixon. A stormy controversy was brought about when over the selection of a county seat at either Oregon or Dixon and which led to the publishing of notices by Father Dixon of a bill to form a new county to include Oregon, and one by John Phelps to divide the county and include Dixon as Ogle county's southern limit. Finally, however, an agreement was made that an equitable division should be made giving Oregon the county seat of Ogle and Dixon the county seat of the new county.

The DARK BLOND

BEGIN HERE TODAY
MILICENT GRAVES asks her employer, GEORGE DRIMGOLD, for a raise and, instead, is fired. A moment later he begs her to stay, saying he has something important to discuss—a confession that for years he has protected a murderer.

Millicent goes out to dinner, promising to return. Drimgold tells her to watch for a woman in a black ermine coat. Millicent sees such a woman in the room. Later Millicent discovers someone has taken her purse, substituting one exactly like it. She starts back to the room and in the elevator sees a distinguished-looking man of middle age.

No one in the room knows anything about Millicent's purse. The woman in black ermine is gone. Millicent goes back to Drimgold's office, finds him dead. Her purse is on the floor, its contents scattered. She looks out the window and sees a policeman entering the building.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER II

MILICENT realized her predicament. The assistant janitor must have seen Drimgold's body and notified the police. Within a few minutes the machinery of the law would have started to function. Someone had murdered Drimgold. That someone must have deliberately stolen Millicent's purse leaving a carefully prepared duplicate in order to prevent Millicent from detecting the substitution. That person must have used Millicent's keys to open the door of the office. Drimgold, in a desperate struggle for life, must have snatched at the purse the murderer was carrying and dumped its contents over the office.

Blind, unreasoning panic seized the girl as she realized her predicament. She turned away from the window, rushed past the thing which lay on the floor, ran to the outer office and paused as she caught sight of the shorthand notebook which lay on her desk. This was the notebook in which she had taken down in shorthand the first installment of Drimgold's confession. Hardly realizing what she did, she snatched it up, clamped it under her arm and raced for the corridor.

The elevator bell was ringing frantically. There was only one elevator running in the building. Millicent had taken the elevator to the upper floor. She knew that the assistant janitor and the police officer were ringing the bell, trying to get the elevator back down to the ground floor. She entered the cage, closed the doors, waited.

After a few moments the bell quit ringing and Millicent felt that the assistant janitor and the officer had either started up the long climb of 17 flights of stairs or else had gone to the basement to put another elevator in commission.

SHE pushed the control lever and the cage slid smoothly downward. She tried to stop at the ground floor, but it was only after three attempts that she was able to bring the cage to a position from which she could open the doors. She sped across the lobby and out into the wind swept darkness. There was a subway entrance at the corner and she ran toward it, the wind whipping her clothes about her.

It was not until after she had boarded the subway train that she suddenly realized her predicament. She had fled from the scene of the murder. She dared not go home. She wanted only to get away from everything and everyone. Drimgold was dead. Her job had automatically terminated. She was without funds, save for the money which was in the purse that had been substituted for hers.

Millicent left the subway at the 35th street station. A cheap hotel displayed an electric sign. She registered under an assumed name.

The clerk demanded cash in advance. Millicent hesitated a moment, then took the amount from the coin purse. After all, it would be in the nature of a loan.

After a night of tortured dreams, interspersed with fitful periods of sleep, she awoke to face the day. A morning newspaper told her all that the police were willing to make public. It was enough to make a damning case against her.

Drimgold, it seemed, had telephoned someone whose identity was being kept secret by the police and said that he was dictating a confession to his secretary. The police knew, therefore, why Millicent had been working overtime. They had traced her moves from the time she left the tea room at 6:35, signed the register in the elevator and was taken to the 17th floor. The murder had been committed at between 6:15 and 6:45. The assistant janitor who discovered the body had told the officers he had heard Millicent and her employer quarreling in the private office and had heard Drimgold shout, "You're fired!" The police had searched for Millicent's shorthand notebook in which they reasoned she must have written Drimgold's confession. They had searched in vain and now they were throwing out a dragnet for Millicent, a dragnet which was coming the city.

MILICENT took stock of the situation. She was without funds of her own. There was some money in the purse which had been substituted for hers. From this she had paid the hotel bill. She determined to use no more of this money. She had, she realized, burned her bridges in a moment of blind panic. Having once fled from the scene of the murder, no story that she could now tell the police would carry conviction. There was only one thing she could do—find the woman in black who had substituted purses.

She left the hotel, chin up, despite the weakness of her knees, determined to fight the thing through.

She went first to the department store where she had purchased the purse.

"I am wondering," she told the clerk, "if you can trace for me the purses which you have sold and which were initialed 'M. G.' There can't be a great number of them, and . . ."

"I'm sorry," she said, "but those monograms are cut on a stenciling machine of our own which can be controlled by a dial so as to give any particular combination of letters, overlapping in the form of a scroll. We ascertain the initials that a purchaser wants and, while the purchaser is waiting, the initials are cut by the machine and attached to the leather by a special process. We don't keep any record of the letters, any more than we would of initials placed in the hands of hats sold from our hat department."

Millicent frowned thoughtfully, then said, "I think the party that I am inquiring about would probably have a charge account here. Would it be possible for me to see the charge accounts of persons whose initials are 'M. G.' and see whether a bag had been purchased?"

This time the clerk's shake of the head was not accompanied by a smile.

"I'm sorry," she said, "it's impossible. In the first place, our accounts are confidential, and, in the second place, it would entail far too much work in our bookkeeping department."

MILICENT felt strangely balked, helpless. She walked over to the telephone booths and called the tea room where she had dined that night.

Striving to keep any excitement from showing in her voice, she said, "I'd like to speak to the gypsy fortune teller, please. Tell her it's quite important."

"Who is this talking?" asked a woman's voice.

"You can tell her that it's just a friend calling," Millicent said.

The woman's voice said, "She disappeared late last night under rather peculiar circumstances. She left a note saying she wouldn't be back. Therefore, if you'll please tell me who it is calling, I'll . . ."

Millicent slid the receiver back on the hook, turned and walked rapidly from the department store.

So the gypsy woman had disappeared. Perhaps, after all, it was the gypsy woman who had arranged for the substitution of the purses. Perhaps it was the gypsy woman who had gone to Drimgold's office . . . no, she was satisfied it couldn't have been. The fortune teller might have substituted purses—that was all.

Millicent Graves tried to compose herself as she stepped out of the department store to the sidewalk. A newsboy thrust a paper in front of her.

"Police solch for molder girl!" he screamed at her. "Read about it."

She shook her head, turned hurriedly away, snuggled down into the collar of her coat, feeling suddenly very conspicuous and very, very helpless.

She started walking with swift nervous steps, and suddenly became conscious of steps that were approaching from behind her. They were long-paced, masculine steps, the steps of a man who is in a hurry.

Millicent checked an impulse to look back over her shoulder, checked an impulse to run. She moved closer to the display windows of the department store, hoping to reach the corner where she could turn and be lost in the crowd.

The steps followed behind her. Millicent quickened her steps.

A man's voice said, "Just a minute, please," and a hand touched her on the shoulder.

AG. DEPARTMENT EXPENSES WILL BE 118 MILLION

House Committee Makes Recommendations for Wallace's Office

Washington, March 15.—(AP)—An appropriation of $118,112,878 to run the Agriculture Department for the fiscal year beginning next July 1 has been recommended by the House by its appropriations committee.

This represented a decrease of $208,825,136 from the amount made available for this year.

For roads $48,559,256 was included in the bill outright, in addition to $100,000,000 authorized out of emergency funds and $7,082,600 for forest roads and trails.

Tucked away in the detailed committee budget was a statement that the report estimate of $206,000 for "code-compliance inspection" that was to enable the forest service to assist in work on codes governing private forestry operations, had been eliminated.

No Legal Codes
"The item has been stricken from the bill," the committee said, "for the reason there is no existing legislation authorizing codes during the fiscal year 1936."

The report did not elaborate. Saying a survey indicated "very serious chinch bug infestations over an area much larger than in 1934 are probable this spring in the corn belt states." The committee approved a supplemental budget estimate of $2,500,000 for controlling the pests.

The farm credit administration drew $4,000,000 outright and a $1,975,000 loan from the emergency crop loan funds, to go with other available moneys for a total of $5,975,000. The estimated 1935 expenditures of the agency is $12,542,356.

Employees Gagged
Written into the measure was a provision that none of the agricultural funds may go to an employee or written, which advocates who makes public any statement, reduced consumption of, or which asserts that it is harmful or undesirable to use, any wholesome agricultural food commodity for any manufacture thereof except in accordance with the food and drug act or in suggesting a balanced diet.

TAXPAYERS ALWAYS
Jud Tunkins says taxpayers have been complaining as long as he can remember, but fortunately for governments, they have always managed to survive in large numbers.

Cultivation

QUITE OFTEN the difference between a fine garden and an ordinary one is in the method of fertilization. Too much is almost as bad as too little fertilizer. Several light applications thoroughly worked in are preferable to one heavy treatment.

CULTIVATE your garden as soon as possible after a heavy rain. The water packs down the surface soil which then becomes crusted and cracked in the hot sun.

MANY PLANT difficulties may be readily overcome with proper fertilization. Plants that are kept growing continuously are much hardier and less susceptible to disease.

LIME is not a plant food. Its value is in correcting a sour or acid soil condition and in making clayey soils looser and more pliable.

REGARD your flower garden as an additional room in your home. Its treatment as an out-door living room will make it the most enjoyable portion of your home.

MAKE the care of your garden a part of the day's routine. A few moments each day will then be sufficient.

IF YOU have trees or heavy shrubs or bushes close to your garden, it is necessary to fertilize more often for these stronger growing plants will take the sustenance that should be available to your tenderer annuals or perennials.

FROGS or toads, beetles, garden spiders, dragon flies, are some of the desirable friends in your garden for they feed on both the adults and the larvae of harmful forms.

IF YOU have a steep slope where it is difficult to get grass, try planting thickly with honey-suckle.

IN PLANNING the planting for the front of the house, consider your neighbors. The effectiveness is doubled if it is in harmony with the others.

WOODLAND TREES get along without fertilizer but lawn trees must compete with the greedy grass and should be fertilized. Bone Meal or a good tree and shrub fertilizer should be used.

GOOD THOUGHTS

Happiness consists in activity, such as the constitution of our nature, it is a running stream and not a stagnant pool.

—John M. Good.

Happiness grows at our own firesides, and is not to be picked in strangers' gardens.

—Douglas Jerrold

To be of use in the world is the only way to be happy.

—Andersen

Ask God for gladness. Be glad like children, like the birds of the heaven. And let not the sin of men dismay you in your doings.

—Dostoevsky

Wherever thought is held in line with simple goodness and kindness; wherever thought is loving and has the good of others before it; wherever purity and innocence abide—there, in cottage or palace, happiness is found; ay, even in a prison cell. And when happiness is present, there, also, are wit and humor. Happiness is inseparable from wit, humor and spiritual vitality.

—Christian Science Monitor

The Lord reigneth; let the earth rejoice; let the multitude of isles be glad thereof. The heavens declare his righteousness, and all the people see his glory. Ye that love the Lord, hate evil; he preserveth the souls of his saints; he delivereth them out of the hand of the wicked. Light is sown for the righteous, and gladness for the upright in heart.

Volunteers Serving in Philippines in '99 May Get Fares

Washington, March 15.—(AP)—

A bill to give about $6,000,000 to volunteers who served in the Philippines during the Filipino insurrection of 1899 was approved yesterday by the house committee on war claims.

Under the law, a soldier who reenlists is entitled, on his reenlistment day, to enough money to pay his fare back home.

Volunteers who were serving in the Philippines were promised travel pay if they would continue to fight without going through the formality of re-enlistment.

But their claims subsequently were denied, legal authorities contending special legislation was required.

The bill approved today by the war claims committee would authorize payment of the travel money to about 15,000 volunteers.

Men who were in the regular army received their travel pay.

The presentation will take place at a special convocation in Eaton chapel at 11 o'clock in the morning and Mr. White will be honored at a luncheon after the ceremony. Prominent newspaper editors of the Middle West will be present for the occasion.

Mr. White was born in Emporia, February 10, 1868. He graduated from the College of Emporia, studied at the University of Kansas, but quit when he was offered a job with the Eldorado Republican as a printer. He later became circulation manager, reporter, advertising hustler, then manager of the Republican. After that he was an editorial writer and correspondent for other papers until he bought the Emporia Gazette in 1905. Since then he has maintained the Gazette at a standard that is looked up to by the editors of weeklies throughout the country.

As an author, William Allen White is known for several volumes of short stories, including "The Real Issue," and "Strategem and Spoils," for his biographies of Woodrow Wilson and Calvin Coolidge, and for several novels, one of which is "A Certain Rich Man." He is a member of the boards of the Walter Page, Woodrow Wilson, and Rockefeller Foundations, and of the Pacific Relations Committee.

To Study Increase of Tuberculosis in Illinois Last Year

To investigate the cause of the increase in tuberculosis cases reported to health authorities in Illinois last year, and to lay plans to prevent future rises, physicians, nurses and lay-workers will convene in Quincy, April 15th and 16th for the twenty-sixth annual meeting of the Illinois Tuberculosis Association, it was announced today by Dr. H. N. Hefflin, president.

Representatives of practically every county tuberculosis association in the state will attend the conference. The effectiveness of prevention and control activities now being conducted by the local organizations will be reviewed. Work done by sanitariums, clinics and nursing services will be discussed with the view of setting higher and stricter qualifications.

Experts from other states have been invited to give the Illinois workers the benefit of their experience. Special emphasis will be placed on the prevention of tuberculosis among children, when health camps and open-air schoolrooms will be discussed.

In addition, the annual business meeting will be held. A board of directors, executive committee and officers will be elected for the ensuing year. The present officers are: Dr. Hefflin, Kewanee, president; J. J. McNally, Lewistown, vice president; Mrs. F. P. Auld, Shelbyville, secretary; Dr. J. P. Denby, Carlinville, treasurer; and W. P. Shahan, Springfield, executive secretary.

Annual meetings of the Illinois Tuberculosis Association in recent years have been held in Mount Vernon, Kewanee, Waukegan, Danville and Jacksonville.
